Glennie Tichenor vs Alvis R. Tichenor, dismissed without prejudice.

CLEAN-UP DATE.

Thursday, Oct. 9, Fixed As Date For General Cleaning Up.

Thursday, October 9th, has been designated by the State Authorities as Fire and Accident prevention day, for the entire State.

Realizing the importance of good sanitary conditions and seeing the need for the general observance of such a day in our town, the Mayor, J. E. Bean, together with the Chairman and Secretary of the Board of Health, Judge Mack Cook and Dr. E. B. Pendleton, have designated the above date as general clean-up day, for the prevention of sickness as well as fire &c.

Warnings have been sent out that "flu" is abroad in the land again and there is no better way in which to fight the awful malady than by the observance of strict sanitary conditions.

We urge it upon every man, woman and child in this town, in fact in every town in the County, to thoroughly renovate the face of their property, the property in and upon which they reside.

Don't let this day go by unheeded, if you do some member of your family or your neighbor's family is certain to pay with their lives, the penalty of your neglect and slothfulness.

Clean up, don't stop as long as you can find anything that needs burning or burying.

BASE BALL.

Beaver Dam met defeat last Saturday on the home grounds, at the hands of Bee Springs, in as fine an exhibition of the American sport as one would care to see. The teams appeared to us to be about evenly matched.

The play, or decision on the ball ruled foul in the last half of the 7th, when the Beaver Dam boys were at bat, was an extremely doubtful decision and caused much dissatisfaction.

At any rate it is morally certain that the decision cost the home team the game, because the score up to that time was tied at one each, and on this particular hit, called foul strike, Beaver Dam scored and got a man on third. Which might have won, but when the batter and runner were both sent back, the side died without further gains. Then Bee Springs made one score in the 8th inning, which won the game.

It was for the most part a battle between pitchers, each team having good pitchers and both appeared to be in rare form, striking out 13 and 14 batters each, the Bee Springs slaban getting the better of the argument.

Beaver Dam also lost to Central City Sunday, in the game played at McHenry, by the score of 2 to 4.

HONEYMOON RUDELY BROKEN BY SHERIFF

Forgery Charge Leads To Detention Of Young Groom.

Charlie Haws was apprehended on board the M. H. & E. train at the local depot Monday night by Sheriff S. A. Bratcher, upon information and request formerly communicated by the sheriff of Spencer county, Ind., where young Haws is charged with forgery on two or more counts, perhaps.

The young man announced his willingness to return to Indiana, where he is accused of committing the offense, without requiring requisition papers, or in anywise prolonging the transfer from this state. The Sheriff of Spencer county, Ind., came over after the prisoner and returned to Rockport, Ind., yesterday.

In an interview with young Haws the following information was readily given:

The young man, Charlie Haws, said he was born and raised near Mining City, Butler county, Ky., and that his age was 18 years, that he had never before been arrested. That some mistake had been made in regard to the charge upon which he was now detained and that he felt certain that it would be so shown when he could be given a hearing.

Young Haws was married about two weeks ago to a Miss Susie Blanchard, who gave her age as 19, and daughter of Mr. ————Blanchard, of Narrows, to which point the young couple were enroute when the plans were so unceremoniously interrupted by Sheriff Bratcher. The young married people had gone to the Hoosier City some two weeks ago, for the express purpose of getting married and were returning to the home of the bride's parents when their happiness was so suddenly and completely upset, at least for the time being.

3 CHILDREN SENT TO ORPHAN'S HOME

Mary Belle, Jessie Catherine and Irene King, infant children of Whalon King, deceased and Francis King, were voluntarily surrendered, and committed to the Kentucky Children's Home Society by the Ohio County Court, Wednesday.

Under present conditions it was utterly impossible for the mother of the three little girls to support and care for them, though strive as she might. So the next best course, as viewed by those concerned, was taken.

JOE ESKRIDGE DEAD.

Mr. Joe Eskridge died at his home near Fordville, last Friday. He had been afflicted with chronic appendicitis for several years and finally submitted to an operation on Monday prior to his death, but it proved too late, as his general physical condition had become so deranged that death resulted in spite of all that could be done for him.

Burial of the remains took place at Wesley Chapel Church, near deceased's home, Saturday.

LAURENE STEVENS.

Miss Laurene Stevens, the beautiful 12-year old daughter of Mr. R. F. Stevens, died at the home of her father in Beaver Dam, Wednesday, from an attack of typhoid of short duration. The young girl was just blossoming into womanhood, and was of a most lovable character.

Burial of the remains took place at Liberty, yesterday at 11 o'clock a. m.

FRANCE GIVES "TIGER" VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

Paris, Sept. 30.—Premier Clemenceau and his government received a vote of confidence in the Chamber of Deputies today, 262 to 188.

The vote of confidence means another important victory for the "Tiger" of France, this time in his fight for ratification of the peace treaty. The figures show, nevertheless, a marked dwindling in his support, though they put to naught all the predictions of the radicals that "the next vote" will topple him from power.

WORLD'S SERIES.

In the first of the series of ball games between the Chicago Americans and the Cincinnati Nationals, for the championship of the world, played at Cincinnati, Ohio, Wednesday, Cincinnati, with Ruether pitching, whaled the pellet for 9 scores while the much touted White Sox garnered but one lone tally. Cicotte, the premier pitcher for the white stockings was knocked out of the box in the 4th stanza. Altogether, the Reds registered 14 hits to 6 for the Windy City Aggregation.

The game yesterday, with Williams and Salee doing the twirling, went to Cincinnati by the count of 4 to 2. This gives the Red Legs a good jump on the White Sox in the series of 9 games to be played.

Governor Black's campaign methods would be amusing if they were not so ludicrous. He charges Thurston Ballard with selling flour cheaper wholesale than retail, a business practice which is universal, and accuses Ed Morrow of performing his sworn duty in enforcing the law while he was United States District Attorney.

BRITON WOULD BOSS IF TREATY APPROVED

Would Have 24 Votes Or Labor Questions To U. S. 4

Washington, Sept. 30.—American labor will have 4 votes in the inter-labor council to be formed by the peace treaty which President Wilson brought from France and the British Empire will have 24.

Thus the same proportion of British preponderance which exists in the assembly of the League of Nations—six votes for Britain and one for the United States—is carried out in the arrangement for the international organization which is to settle the world's labor problems.

Fall Points to Danger.

Senator Fall, of New Mexico, one of the bitter opponents of the treaty, brought this fact to the attention of the Senate today in the most careful analysis of the treaty which has thus far been presented. He announced at the conclusion of his statement that he will move to strike from the treaty the entire labor convention.

The American Federation of Labor has endorsed the treaty provisions for the formation of the International Labor Council, but it is seriously questioned in the Senate whether its members were at that time aware of the arrangement by which the British empire, with its 24 votes, can hold the balance of power over the 4 votes allowed to the United States.

Five British Odds.

Senator Fall said it was evident that, having established the ratio of 6 to 1, as the proper relation which the British empire should bear to the United States, the treaty makers, including the President, had merely followed out the rule, and by allowing each of the British colonies two votes in the labor council had multiplied the ratio by four, thereby giving the British 24 and the United States but 4.

The tremendous significance of this preponderance of voting power, which has been placed in the hands of the British was shown by Senator Fall when he went on to point out the matters which are to be placed under the jurisdiction of the international labor council by Article XIII of the treaty.

"Under this article any domestic question, whether of transportation, railroads, government; ownership, telegraph lines, telephone lines, factories—every possible phase of domestic life—is touched. All of these would come under this article as affecting labor. The man who is responsible for the labor articles under Article XIII cut the heart out of the labor constitution which Congress wrote for the labor of the country. The authority of Congress to enact laws for labor would, under this article, be transferred to the League of Nations.

Reverses Own Opinion.

Oklahoma City, Sept. 30.—Quoting from pre-war speeches of President Wilson, Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, speaking here tonight in opposition to the league of nations, said the President had reversed his own opinions in order to support the league proposal.

"The American people have been led generally to believe that the league is formed for our benefit, and that its purpose is to keep America out of war," said Senator Reed. "As a matter of fact, the league is formed for the benefit of other nations and is to be maintained largely at the expense of the American people."

The President has "convinced himself that it is the business of American statesmen to sacrifice America on the altar of humanity," he asserted. Referring to Mr. Wilson's remark at Reno, during the recent tour, that he wanted "to get into any kind of trouble that will help liberate man-kind, and do not want to be always thinking about my skin or my pocket-book or my friendships," the senator said:

The trouble is that it is not the President's skin that is to be sacrificed. It is the skin on the backs of American people. It is not the President's pocketbook that is to be emptied. It is the pocketbooks of 110,000,000 Americans.

BOY-PRINCE IS NOW ONLY PLAIN BEGGAR

Former Russian Aristocrats Have Hard Time Mak- ing Living.

Helsingfors, Sept. 27.—There is a Russian boy-prince in Helsingfors who goes practically barefoot. His boots, given to him by a compassionate neighbor, would be spurned by a tramp. They are without soles, and he limps painfully as he picks his way over the hard, cobbled streets.

The barefoot prince typifies the plight of many of the best Muscovite families. The silent suffering and unshed tears of these people—the flotsam of the old regime—would make a story full of pathos fit to raise the pity of many a hardened class fanatic.

Endure Direct Poverty.

There are thousands of Russian families enduring the direct hardships of poverty and the agonies of long months of mental and physical torture just because their gentle birth constitutes them the hated enemy of the Russian proletariat. Some of them are living in misery under the Red Terror, daily awaiting the executioner; others are enduring a bitter exile in Scandinavian countries, anxiously looking forward to the day of their deliverance. Many of them would help themselves if they could, but they were never taught to earn their living so nobody will employ them.

The barefoot prince is but a rung lower on the ladder of misfortune than many of his kind. In the busiest restaurant in Helsingfors a gray-haired man of aristocratic bearing plays second violin. He is an ex-colonel of the Russian army, and was a rich man before the revolution. He is a pathetic figure.

Living in a cheap flat overlooking a squalid courtyard in Helsingfors, there is a Russian nobleman who has put all the splendor of the past behind him and now keeps the wolf from the door by baking pastries. He works at night, and his wife retails the cakes during a daily round of the restaurants.

Russian Colonel Takes Tips.

On a recent visit to the frontier region, a Russian ex-colonel of the Imperial Guard, who was wounded in Galicia, drove me from the station to my hotel. In a threadbare suit and dingy straw hat, he drives an even dingier drosky, and is quite used to carrying luggage and taking "tips."

Society leaders who once helped to grace the czar's court can be seen here any day in faded finery which would be discarded by a London work girl. Princes and counts who once owned half a dozen stately homes and vast lands now live in obscure lodgings and make a frugal meal in cheap restaurants at the same table as the humble clerk or typist.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and for years it was supposed to be incurable. Doctors prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is a constitutional remedy, is taken internally and acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. One Hundred Dollars reward is offered for any case that Hall's Catarrh Medicine fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

TOO MUCH MUSIC.

"Selfishness," said President Noonan, of Marquette university, "is out of place in marriage. Selfishness in marriage leads straight to the divorce court. A selfish woman who married a year ago, the other day called on a divorce lawyer to see about getting a divorce."

"What is the complaint, ma'am?" asked the lawyer. "Does your husband abuse you? Or has he been unfaithful?"

"No," said the selfish woman calmly. "but he snores."

"Snores? Is that all, madam?"

"Isn't that enough?"

"But madam," the lawyer stammered, "didn't you marry the poor fellow for better or worse?"

"Yes, I did, she snapped, "but I didn't marry him for a brass band."

Surgeons agree that in cases of cuts, burns, bruises and wounds the first treatment is most important, when an efficient antiseptic is applied promptly, there is no danger of infection and the wound begins to heal at once. For use on man or beast, Borozone is the ideal antiseptic and healing agent. Buy it now and be ready for an emergency. Price 25c, 50c, $1.00, and $1.50. Sold by Ohio County Drug Co.

U. S. SUBMARINE IS FASTEST EVER MADE

Boston, Sept. 27.—Official tests of the first American fleet submarine, the AA-1, formerly known as the Schley, conducted off Provincetown, indicate that the vessel is the fastest and most efficient craft of her kind ever constructed.

Over a measured course the big submersible made a surface speed of 20.92 knots and a submerged speed of 12.65 knots, exceeding contract requirements in both respects. With the exception of British freak submersibles, steam driven on the surface, which attained a speed of 23 knots, the American craft is said to be the fastest submarine afloat.

The boat was designed and built by the Electric Boat Company of New London, Conn., the hull being built by the Fore River Shipbuilding Co., Corporation, of Quincy, as subcontractor.

The boat will carry a crew of sixty men and four-inch guns, mounted "wet" on her decks. She will have a cruising radius on the surface greater than any but the latest battleships, probably 12,000 miles, and in reality forms a new weapon of naval warfare, as no German or British submarine equals her military characteristics.

Patient—Say, mister, what was that stuff you put on my tooth before you pulled it out?

Dentist—Brandy and cocaine.

Patient—Pull out some more.—Passing Show.

Clothing Salesman—Here's a nice feature, a change pocket provided with a button to prevent losses.

Mr. Longsufferer—Haven't you one with a combination lock? My wife knows how to unfasten a button.

PEOPLE WOULD MIGRATE.

The German government has formed a special department called the "Reichswanderamt" to attend to the emigration problem. Officials are viewing conditions with alarm and unless proper measures are taken to prevent it it is feared that most of the laboring elements will soon leave the country. Industrial and labor conditions in Germany are demoralized. The rural districts are suffering severely from lack of labor. Before the war farmers used to rely on laborers from Galicia and Russia who came every spring and summer to Germany by the hundred thousands. These workers are no longer available. The German laboring class are reluctant to leave the cities and so the farmers are left with scarcely any help whatever. It has been learned that large numbers of the working class are casting eyes toward foreign shores. The United States, Japan and South America are most eagerly looked to and the government is graciously furnishing printed matter of a "trustworthy nature" describing the conditions of settlement in those places.

The first regular daily newspaper was printed at Frankfurt, Germany in 1615.

Wife—(Trying to think of the Hague)—Let's see, what is the name of that place where so much was done towards promoting peace in the world?

Hubby—Reno, my dear.

"If I marry it will be to a man whose fortune has at least five ciphers in it," declared a girl, to a suitor of very limited means.

"Then I've got you," he replied. "Mine is all ciphers!"

Polish Women Carry Out
A. R. C. HEALTH PLANS

THE American Red Cross is now conducting operations in seventeen European countries. In Poland the government is taking over certain parts of the American Red Cross activities so that the Red Cross can move into new fields of relief work. The policy of the American Red Cross is to establish relief activities wherever great need exists, then to encourage local agencies to take over the established work and carry it on.

With a personnel of a hundred, the Red Cross has been making great inroads on the typhus epidemic and has enlisted the aid of 300 Polish personnel, mostly young women who have been taught the rudiments of American ideas of hygiene. After a few months, the Americans in many places were able to leave the work of sanitation to Polish units. The American Red Cross has supplied modern steam sterilizers, 30 mobile laundries, 50,000 flat irons, portable baths and many carloads of clothing, bedding, and hospital supplies.

RALLY FOR THE THIRD RED CROSS ROLL CALL

THE quota of funds for the Lake Division—Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky—for the Third Red Cross Roll Call, November 2-11, is $1,880,000, according to the recent announcement of MacKenzie R. Todd, campaign manager for the division.

This is the Lake Division's share of the $15,000,000 fund asked from the nation to complete American Red Cross relief work abroad during the coming year.

The goal of the Third Red Cross Roll Call is universal membership. In the last drive for funds, the Lake Division quota was $9,400,000. It was oversubscribed by more than four and a half million.

State and county quotas will be announced shortly by state managers: R. F. Grant, Ohio; John R. Downing, Kentucky; Clarence Stanley, Indiana.

This will be the only Red Cross campaign this year. Each year hereafter there will be an annual Roll Call for members, to perpetuate in America the service to Americans that is to be the Red Cross peace time work.

OVERSEAS NURSES TURN TO PUBLIC HEALTH WORK

FIFTY Red Cross nurses, most of them recently returned from overseas service, are to meet in Cleveland, Sept. 18-20, to discuss means of preventing disease.

They have chosen as their peacetime occupation the teaching of home hygiene and dietetics to women and girls outside the nursing profession, and hope in this way to increase the number marching with the American Red Cross in its advance against disease.

CAMP WORKERS AID MEN RETURNING TO CIVILIAN LIFE

RED Cross Home Service workers in Camp Taylor (Ky.) and Camp Sherman (O.) have found their assistance required more and more as time passes by soldiers returning to civilian life who need aid in making the change.

During July 24,677 men passed through the Kentucky demobilization camp and of this number 2,502 new cases are recorded in the camp Home Service records. In addition 2,270 men applied for information, mostly in regard to insurance. This total puts Camp Taylor at the head of the list for all camps in the country in volume of work of this kind.

Camp Sherman stands third.

HOME SERVICE USED TO FIND MISSING MEN

THE Home Service Sections of the American Red Cross in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky are helping to locate soldiers who have disappeared since their discharge from military service.

One is Sgt. Russell Irving Viles, discharged June 17 from service with the Motor Transport Corp 813.

Private Harry E. Ross, Co. H, 26th Infantry, First Division, A. E. F., was wounded while serving at Soissons July 19, 1918. Since that time only indefinite reports have reached his mother, Mrs. Clark D. Ross, 4042 Third St., Des Moines, Ia.

Private Joseph Burch Walker of Montague, Tenn., is believed to be mentally disabled as the result of gas. He was discharged from Camp Dodge in June.

Private George Nelson, C. E. F., has been missing since February 1, 1919. He is suffering a lapse of memory following shell shock.

Any of these men may be in the Lake Division, ignorant of names and addresses.

JUNIORS WANT MILLION MEMBERS FOR THIS YEAR

A MILLION juniors in the Lake Division in 1919—that is the slogan of the Red Cross department of Junior Membership.

The division is 200,000 short of that number, but hopes to enroll that many—and more—in the membership drive the Juniors will conduct in the schools during September.

VOLUNTEER

Be one of the million workers in the country who will help to enroll Red Cross members in the Third Roll Call November 2-11.

The Red Cross needs $15,000,000 to complete war relief obligations overseas. The Lake Division's share is $1,880,000.

The Red Cross needs new members for 1920 to carry on Red Cross service for Americans.

SEWALL DECLARED "T. R." A GAME COMPANION

That Roosevelt was a game companion and a man who could quickly adapt himself to new and untried conditions is the testimony of "Bill" Sewall, who was the Colonel's guide and companion on many jaunts through the Maine woods.

"I remember particularly on one of these trips that Theodore wanted to chop," says Mr. Sewall, "but I voted against the plan. He was fond of chopping and seemed disappointed. I saw his disappointment and explained my reason for refusing."

"If you use that axe," I told him, "the first thing you know you will be cutting yourself. Then I will not only have to pull this dugout—but the dugout with you in it."

"On that trip I had a pirogue, a sort of dugout, which I was dragging along on the trip, and it was pretty heavy. Theodore readily perceived the common sense of my objection and complied with a cheerful grin."

"How he enjoyed that trip! A wholesome, clean-thinking youth he was, with eager eye and mind, and he saw and absorbed every detail. I have a letter now that Arthur Cutler wrote me soon after the party returned home."

"It takes Theodore two hours to tell the story of the Munsungun Lakes trip, he wrote."

"During the next fall Theodore came up to Maine again and we hiked up to Mount Katahdin. The following spring he was graduated from college and shortly afterward he married and went to Europe. While in Europe he wrote me several letters. In one he wrote that he was enjoying himself splendidly, but he added the more he saw of foreign lands the more thankful he was that he was a free-born American citizen, of a country where he acknowledged no superior, unless it was by merit, and no man an inferior unless by his demerit. That letter, to me, indicates the clear way of thinking that marked Roosevelt."

He loved freedom, and to him the United States was the incarnation of that word, and ever after, through all his life, his true Americanism stood out and earned for him the name which suits him so well—the Great American.

"Years after the Maine tramps, when both of us followed the trail West, I saw Theodore Roosevelt broaden into healthy manhood, become strong physically. The unquenchable spirit of the man, however, was always there, even in the frail, weak-sighted boy of the Munsungun trails."

"The breadth of the Maine woods entered his soul in those days and stirred in him the love of the great outdoors that lured him to all the ends of the earth before, finally, he took that final West Road. Such a spirit cannot die; for me and all real Americans, it must live on forever."

Mr. Sewall is one of the great many who are so keenly interested in the success of the Roosevelt Memorial Association campaign for funds with which to establish permanent and fitting memorials for Mr. Roosevelt.

GOV. BLACK AND THE L. & N. PASS

REVEALED BY TESTIMONY BEFORE THE INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION.

TOM RHEA ALSO INVOLVED

Candidate For Governor on Democratic Ticket and His Campaign Manager Are Confronted By Ugly Facts

During the investigation in 1913 by the United States Senate into the efforts of the L. & N. Railroad to improperly influence judges, jurors, and public officers in Kentucky, hearings were held before the Federal Interstate Commerce Commission. The hearing was public, both sides were represented by well-known attorneys, and all the evidence was made a public record for the purpose of showing just what the L. & N. was doing to influence jurors and other officials in suits against the railroad company.

The following letter to R. D. Warfield, chief counsel for the L. & N. Railroad, written by James D. Black, of Barbourville, at the time First Assistant Attorney General in the McCleary administration, and later Lieutenant Governor and now Governor and candidate for election to that office, was brought to light:

"Dear Mr. Warfield: Mr. William Tye, of this place, and the owner of the local newspaper, 'The People's News,' has recently sold said paper to Dr. Charles Davis, of this place. By virtue of some arrangement with the L. & N. R. R. Company, Mr. Tye holds a pass over a portion of the company's line in Kentucky. Because of said transfer of the ownership of said paper, Mr. Tye will have to surrender his pass, and Dr. Davis will likely apply for same instead. I write to ask, at the suggestion of Mr. Tye, to retain his pass during the remainder of the year. He agrees to assist me in the company's litigation in the courts. His service in this regard will amply justify the company in permitting him to hold the pass for said time.

"He is of a numerous and influential family, and some of his people are usually on the juries in our courts. I think it would be a good idea to allow free transportation for said time."

When Warfield received the letter he sent it on to W. L. Mapother, Vice President of the L. & N., with his O. K. and the following comment:

"Please note and return, Mr. Black, besides being one of the attorneys at Barbourville, is also the First Assistant Attorney General of Kentucky under the present administration.

"Therefore, I think it will be well to comply with his request. Please let me know whether I may say to him that this will be done."

It will be observed that Assistant Attorney General (now Governor) Black recommended Tye's request because "he agrees to assist us in the company's litigation in the courts," and because "he is of a numerous and influential family, and some of his people are usually on the juries in our courts."

Tries To Defend Act.

Governor Black on the stump has tried to defend his act on the ground that Tye was the editor of a Democratic newspaper, and an old friend of his, and he reportedly asked his audiences if they also would not do favors for their friends.

Is it reasonable to suppose that the Vice President of one of the greatest railroads in the country would be asked to put his O. K. on the request of an obscure ex-editor unless said ex-editor could amply justify his services on the ground of being a member "of a numerous and influential family" and "some of his people are usually on the juries in our courts," and unless the man who asked the favor for him was not at that time holding two jobs—one a state office and the other on the payroll of the L. & N. Railroad Company?

Carroll Raps Black.

Judge Carroll, during his recent Democratic primary campaign against Governor Black, declared from the stump time and time again in every part of the state.

"Governor Black is everywhere and every place confronted by that ugly and incriminating railroad letter. In every speech he spends half of his time in a pettifoggish way attempting to defend, explain and apologize for that indefensible and inexplicable thing.

"If he is the NOMINEE, it will stare at people from every telephone pole, billboard and public place in the state, and no Democratic speaker of respectability, save and except Governor Black, will have the effrontery to stand before any audience and undertake to defend it."

Governor Black for years was the attorney for the L. & N. Railroad in his own community, representing the corporation in the conduct of personal injury and other suits brought against the company.

Rhea Also Involved.

The famous L. & N. pass exposure also involves another well-known Democratic leader, Thomas S. Rhea, Stanley's campaign manager in his race for the Senate a year ago, and now manager of the state Democratic campaign this year for the ticket and slated for a fat appoint office if the ticket is elected.

In 1911 Rhea was a candidate for the nomination for State Treasurer before the Democratic Convention. The testimony before the Interstate Commerce Commission revealed the following letter from Browder & Browder, lawyers, of Russellville, Rhea's home town:

"Law Office Browder and Browder, Russellville, Ky., April, 10 1911. Judge Dearing:

"Will you send pass and let President's office have this letter for their file?"

W. L. Mapother, Esq., First Vice President, Louisville, Ky.

"Dear Sir:

"Our friend, T. S. Rhea, is going to be nominated for State Treasurer on the Democratic State ticket. Of course, he has an opponent, but we do not think there is the slightest doubt but that he is on the prearranged slate. When he gets to Frankfort, it will be demonstrated in a short time that he has got more sense than the entire aggregation up there, and we would like you very much to give him an annual pass in Kentucky, which will be of great use to him in making his present canvass.

"It is not necessary to suggest the importance of the office he will hold. If you can do this, we will be glad to deliver him the pass.

"Yours very truly,

"BROWDER & BROWDER."

On this request there was the following notation, as presented before the commission:

"Issue good until July 1st. C. J. W. 4-13. W. L. M. I recommend such pass until July 1, 1911, and all the year if nominated. H. L. S."

It will be observed that Rhea in the position of State Treasurer (to which he was elected) would be a member of the State Board of Valuation and Assessment, which places the valuation on railroad property for taxation.

G. O. P. SPEAKERS OUT ON THE STUMP

NOTED ORATORS CARRY REPUBLICAN MESSAGE TO EVERY PART OF KENTUCKY.

Speakers' Bureau at State Headquarters in Louisville Plans One of the Most Extensive Campaigns Ever Outlined.

Ever since Edwin P. Morrow, Republican candidate for Governor of Kentucky, fired the opening gun of the present state campaign in his initial address at Pikeville, September 8, Republican orators have visited many parts of Kentucky.

The speakers' bureau at Republican State Headquarters in Louisville is in charge of James F. Ramey, well known throughout the state as director of the speakers' bureau a year ago during the Stanley-Bruner campaign. Mr. Ramey is in close touch with affairs in every part of the state and his office at state headquarters is a veritable beehive.

In addition to Mr. Morrow, who expects to speak in every part of the state before the election, November 4, the following candidates will be heard: S. Thurston Ballard, candidate for Lieutenant Governor; Judge Fred A. Vaughan, for Secretary of State; Mayor John J. Craig, of Covington, for State Auditor; James A. Wallace, for State Treasurer; Charles L. Dawson, for Attorney General; Roy B. Speck, for Clerk of the Court of Appeals; George Colvin, for Superintendent of Public Instruction, and William C. Hanna for Commissioner of Agriculture.

Among these candidates Mr. Morrow, Mr. Dawson and Prof. Colvin are widely known as platform orators and their addresses are attracting wide attention.

Noted Men Speak.

Major Jackson Morris, of Pineville, is out on the stump for the ticket. Major Morris was private secretary to Governor A. E. Willson and Assistant Secretary of State. Major Morris has just returned from a year's service with Pershing's army in France. Don C. Edwards is also on the speakers' force. Mr. Edwards resides in London and is a former congressman. Lieutenant William Wallace, of Richmond, a prominent attorney of that city, and just returned from service overseas, is also a speaker of note.

Among the speakers who will be heard during the campaign are Augustus E. Willson, of Louisville, former Congressman King Swope, who carried the Eighth Congressional District over Judge Charles Hardin, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee; Judge Edward C. O'Rear, of Frankfort, former Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals and Republican candidate for Governor; E. F. Franks, of Owensboro, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, former candidate for Governor and president of the Kentucky State Bankers' Association; Thomas B. McGregor, of Frankfort, former Attorney General; Dr. Ben Bruner, of Louisville, Virgil Y. Moore, prominent attorney of Madisonville and widely known as "The Little Giant;" Judge James Breathitt, of Hopkinsville, former Attorney General and many others.

In addition to the large staff of speakers to be sent out under the direction of the State Campaign Committee there will be hundreds of other speakers in all precincts in every congressional and senatorial district. These speakers will be directed by the local committees in co-operation with the State Speakers' Bureau.

Beyond doubt the present plans of the bureau to supply every nook and corner of the state with Republican speakers are the most extensive ever adopted in a similar campaign.

PEOPLE LAUGH AT "SORE TOE" BOOK

ISSUED OVER ENDORSEMENT OF V. O. GILBERT, SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION.

COST TAXPAYERS BIG SUM

State Forced To Pay Fifteen Thousand Dollars, Including Paper, To Print Volume Prepared By Dr. W. L. Heizer, of "Physiology" Fame.

Kentucky people are holding their sides laughing over the pretty kettle of fish in which Superintendent of Public Instruction V. O. Gilbert finds himself as a result of the publication of the famous "Sore Toe" book. That is, they hold their sides until they recall that the book cost the taxpayers of the state some $15,000, including the paper, and then they modify their mirth.

The whole story of this book is told in the Campaign Handbook prepared under the direction of the Republican State Campaign Committee from the records on file in the state offices at Frankfort. This "Sore Toe" book was prepared by Dr. W. L. Heizer and Mrs. V. O. Gilbert, and was published at state expense. The Louisville Courier-Journal recently published an article giving the main facts in the case. The Courier-Journal was one of the Democratic newspapers in the state that ridiculed the notorious "Heizer Physiology," prepared by the co-author of the "Sore Toe" book. The "Heizer Physiology," it will be remembered, was adopted last winter by the State School Textbook Commission, and was then thrown out when the second adoption was made.

The Little "Yellow Back."

The "Sore Toe" book is entitled "Health and Sanitation Through the Public Schools of Kentucky," and the little yellow back was widely distributed throughout the state, at the state's expense. It contains information all the way from a boost for the two authors by Prof. Gilbert himself to how to boil eggs, how to wrap up sore toes, and how to raise children, declaring that "when the child has eggs for breakfast they should not be repeated in any form for supper. When the child has a chop for breakfast he should have poultry or fish for dinner."

Even the adults are not overlooked in this famous book of advice. "From a health standpoint," says the book, "very little excuse can be found for a person maintaining a heavy beard or mustache. The hairs collect dust and dirt. Very frequently when eating milk or other food becomes entangled in the growth and it is troublesome to remove thoroughly such substances." The book also says that all eggs before boiling should be washed.

This book was ordered printed by the State Superintendent of Printing in July, 1917, and payment of the bill came before the State Printing Commission a year later. This Commission is composed of the Governor, Secretary of State, Auditor, Treasurer and Attorney General. Secretary of State Lewis voted against the payment of the bill. Mr. Lewis, also as a member of the State Board of Education, composed of Superintendent Gilbert, Secretary Lewis and Attorney General Morris, refused to vote to have the book distributed in the schools of the state, but Gilbert and Morris outvoted him.

This "Sore Toe" book is only one instance of the extravagant and reckless way the Department of Education has used up the people's money in the face of small salaries for the teachers and the cutting down of the school year.

NEW SONG FOR KENTUCKY.

"Morrow's the Man" is the title of a new song being sung throughout Kentucky. The words and music are by Varry T. Myers and the song is copyrighted and published by the Zoeller Music Co., of Louisville. The song follows:

Like a brave Kentucky pioneer, Those knights in old buckskin Who followed the vision-granted quest of George Rogers Clark and kin. He's standing firm on his platform Which we know is staunch and true So put your shoulder to the wheel, boys,

And help him put it through.

CHORUS:

Morrow, Morrow, The man of the day, He's the man for Governor, Hip, hip, hurrah.

We'll all be mighty lucky Down here in old Kentucky To have a man that will and can, And Morrow's the man.

In his opening speech of the campaign at Hopkinsville, Saturday, Sept. 20th Gov. Black presented some comparative figures on the receipts and expenditures of the State since Gov. Wilson's (Republican) administration entered office in January 1908, up to June 30, 1911.

Gov. Black stated that the gross expenditures for the first three and one-half years of Gov. Wilson's term amounted to $24,727,504. But Gov. Black, either through ignorance or misinformation, did not state that the very first day the Wilson administration was in office it was forced to pay out $1,339,234, which was contracted by and should have been paid by the Democratic administration, immediately preceding.

Of this enormous sum, nearly one million dollars ($934,935.45 to be exact) was in warrants due to the teachers in the common schools of the state for two month's back salary. The balance, $404,348.53 was made up of audited claims and outstanding warrants due prior to January 6, 1903 and should have been paid by the outgoing Democratic administration.

Gov. Black stated that the Wilson administration contributed to the present state debt, $2,235,011. He neglected to state, either through ignorance or misinformation, that the Republicans paid the sum of $1,339,284, as enumerated above, which sum was past due and should have been paid by the Democratic administration immediately preceding. It is difficult to understand how a man aspiring to the high office of Governor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky could be so lax in his efforts to secure real and established facts. Probably the figures were furnished to him by some designing person and doubtless he will hasten to explain these further facts, as shown by the records.

Gov. Black also stated that the outstanding warrants at the end of the three and one-half years of the Wilson administration amounted to $1,416,489. It should have been stated, also, that the Wilson administration made great strides from the time named (the fiscal year ending June 30, 1911) to the end of the administration, (January 1912,) for during that six months the Wilson administration paid $865,000 of the $1,416,489, leaving warrants outstanding for the Democratic administration following of only $560,489.

Constipation.

The beginning of almost every serious disorder is constipation. If you want to enjoy good health keep your bowels regular. This is best accomplished by proper diet and exercise, but sometimes a medicine is needed and when that is the case you will find Chamberlain's Tablets are excellent. They are mild and gentle in their action, easy and pleasant to take. Give them a trial. They only cost a quarter.

Weather hot enough for July is our experience here in October.

We imagine that the press, the democratic portion of it, will finally come to the defense of the past and present democratic state administrations, but to date we have not noticed a single line.

That Omaha mob that lynched a negro, nearly killed the Mayor in deliberate frenzy, if there be such a state, and destroyed an edifice of justice, the court house, valued at $1,500,000. Besides other and numerous disgraceful acts, is certainly a monument to our twentieth century enlightenment and love of justice.

The illness which prevented president Wilson's visit to Louisville, is regretted by all true Kentuckians.
In a sense, the President's visit was not to have been a call upon Louisville, merely, but in reality a visit to Kentucky as well. Louisville being the chief center of population, the point where more people congregate, was as a result, selected for the place of stopping while visiting the "Dark and Bloody Ground."

"Candidate Ballard has reduced the price of flour in Louisville within the past few days. Is it possible that he has had a change of heart? If so, Bro. Rhea, let's have another one of those soul reaching sermons." We can't exactly understand just what the Hartford Herald means by the above editorial which we copy from this week's issue. It may be that he has reference to the "soul reaching sermon that John Rhea uttered when he had a splendid Democratic Editor and his good wife thrown in jail for uttering what they thought to be the solemn truth, because what they gave statement to reflected upon one of these self-same Rheas.

The Ohio County Board of Health has designated Thursday, Oct. 9th as general clean-up day. There is not another thing on earth, in which our people could engage during that date which would prove so fruitful in good results, saving not only many lives, preventing much sickness and distress, but the loss of thousands of dollars as well perhaps. We all know that cleanliness is the first prerequisite to good health. Without good health we are of but little worth to ourselves, and none to the community. Let's all do our full duty and thoroughly clean our property on this date. Especially get rid of that festering manure dump, on the back of your premises, where lurks more disease, to be scattered broadcast by the flies, than is found almost anywhere. The State Authorities ask us to clean up on this date, the County Board of Health asks us, the Mayor joins with the others in asking that we clean up, public health requires it and common decency demands it.

Let's answer this appeal by responding whole heartedly, clean our premises.
When we get that job completed let's clean our persons and keep that way always. Disease has a hard time breaking into clean, healthful premises where everybody observes strict sanitary laws. A thoroughly clean person is as essential to self defense as water is for quenching thirst.

Last week or the week before a good democratic newspaper roundly condemned S. Thruston Ballard, who is the candidate on the Republican ticket for Lieutenant Governor, because Ballard and Ballard sold flour too high. This week this same gentleman is condemned because Ballard and Ballard sell flour too low. The same Democratic paper even want some "Bro. Rhea" consulted. You ought to get Bro. Rhea preach a sermon on how to reduce the good farmers' taxes or something of the sort.
Even a soul reaching sermon on a reduction of the state debt would help some. When a man calls upon a Rhea for sermons it is evidence of the fact that he is getting short on probachers. Especially if his first name happens to be John or Tom. These same Rheas hail from the county of Logan, where the county election commissioners are charged with wantonly ignoring the wishes of Republicans in the appointment of precinct election officers, going out of the beaten and lawful paths to appoint men not recommended and who are said to be antagonistic to the Republican party.
And what is more, these self-same Rheas are in absolute control of everything democratic in the good county of Logan. Please don't ask us to listen to sermons preached by that bunch of Rheas.

STRAY STREAKS

(By Fluke McFluke.)

J. I. Goodman and Tom J. Stevens happened to get wise to the fact that it was not a display of good taste to wear green ties with red hose, and vice-versa. So Goodman traded Tom his green tie and now they harmonize from the chin down.

Whenever I get so I can't think I am trying to write this stuff and beat out a squib for the editorial column.
I mean I don't stop trying to frame this stuff so long as the spark plug and carburetor to my think tank is making connection and firing with each contact.

It's simply astonishing, the number of fellows who have some sort of urgent business in an adjoining community or neighboring town on the date of a ball game in said adjoining community or neighboring town.
Half the men in Hartford had business to transact in Beaver Dam yesterday and the day before.

Morris Barnett says the reason he has been so long in wrecking that old building on the corner was the fact that he had a strike, a walkout. 50 per cent of his force demanded better working conditions, a 12 hour day and a closed up shop during the balance of the day. Therefore when the demands were refused one-half of his force quit, and that left only Walter Kennedy.

I note that J. Henry appears to be trying to leave the impression that he has been keeping late hours only since he went to Owensboro, where as a matter of course they do most of their work from 4 or 5 in the afternoon to 2 in the morning. Thomas need not try to jam that stuff down me, and I can tell Missus Thomas and the whole world something about the hours John kept, even while in this little burg, where no honest and right-living sort of gentleman except in company with his wife, has a right to be outside of his own yard after 8:30 new time, or 7:30 old-fashioned, square, shore-to-goodness time.

Mr. W. G. Bennett and daughter, Miss Esther, spent last week-end visiting Mr. Bennett's son, L. P. Bennett and family, of Route No. 7.

If you want guaranteed house paint, write Fordsville Planing Mill Company. Their price and color card will come to you by first mail.

Mr. Ervie H. Baize, of the regular army, stationed at Ft. Moultrie, S. C., is spending his furlough with his uncle, W. H. Baize and family.

Mr. R. E. Benham has been discharged from service in the U. S.
Navy. He and his wife are at present with Mrs. Benham's family at Noc-neck.

Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Taylor and daughter, of Printiss, were guests of Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Ford and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Render, Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. D. C. McCoy, after spending a month here with her mother, Mrs.
W. C. Ambrose, and with her sons,
Capt. C. B. and Mr. Herbert Shown, of Beda, has returned to her home in Norman, Okla.

Messrs. Earl and Troy Howard, of Louisville, motored down Sunday to spend a few days with their mother, Mrs. J. A. Howard and family, of this place. They, with Mrs. Howard and small son, Neel, visited friends and relatives in Morgantown, Tuesday.

Get More Work Out of Your Tractor by Using a Tractor Disc Harrow

Keep your tractor as busy as possible at work that pays. It suffers less depreciation when you use it than when you let it stand idle. It keeps on returning profit on your investment.

Besides using it when you plow, use it in disking before and after you plow. That makes a well-prepared seed bed—the kind that pays most.

Come to our store and let us show you the John Deere Pony Tractor Disc Harrow—a sure profit maker behind any standard tractor.

This is an exceptionally strong, light draft, flexible harrow. It has a separate lever for angling each gang so that all tendency of harrow to crowd to one side when working in hard and soft ground, or on hillsides, can be overcome.

Its third lever makes thorough pulverizing possible. With it you can raise or lower the inner ends of the gangs of the front section to make all the discs penetrate at equal depth the entire width of the harrow.

There are other features on this harrow which we would like to show you, such as double bargang frames, twice as strong as any single bar gang frame, all steel stub pole and adjustable spring steel scrapers. Be sure to ask us about these features.

THE NEW EDISON

The Three Million
Dollar Phonograph

THOMAS A. EDISON invented the phonograph in 1877. After he improved his original phonograph to a point where his business advisers said to him: "You now have the best phonograph in existence. Let's go ahead and make it."

Mr. Edison shook his head and replied: "I am not going to put out a new phonograph until it is so perfect that its reproduction of music cannot be detected from the original music."

Thomas A. Edison spent three million dollars in cold cash to develop an instrument which matched the human voice and all kinds of musical instruments so perfectly that the original could not be told from the reproduction—or RECREATION, as it is now called.

We are prepared to sell you today for $285, an exact duplicate of Edison's three million dollar phonograph. You may have extended payments if you desire that accommodation. First of all, however, we want you to hear this wonderful new instrument.

May we have the pleasure of demonstrating to you that Music's RECREATION is a reality and not merely fanciful phrase?

CELEBRITIES OFTEN MISLED.

President Wilson continues in the happy state of mind that has made him feel all the time that he has but to say and the people give thanks and obedience. His persistence in taking his swing around the circle is evidence of this conviction, the probability is that he does not read the un-acceptable. That is the habit of royalty.

We can recall no swing around the circle of this country that has been productive of the results hoped for by its swimmers. There was Andy Johnson. His was a doleful failure, as he was himself. There have been many others. Mr. Blaine, a speaker of peculiar magnetism and great personal charm, tried it and he lost out. Bryan tried it and drew immense crowds, but he didn't draw the White House.

People are queer. They run to see and hear celebrities. The result is that the celebrity thinks it is evidence of regard for him, not for his prominence. There is where they miss it, too. Wilson will have a great following. But he will make nothing by it. The senators are to decide. But Mr. Wilson will enjoy to the full the apparent adoration. It is to him a very acceptable form of recognition.—Hartford Courant.

Indigestion, Biliousness, Constipation. Chamberlain's Tablets have restored to health and happiness hundreds who were afflicted with indigestion, biliousness and constipation. If you are troubled in this way give them a trial. You are certain to be pleased for they will benefit you.

SCARS OF A HERO.

Carrying a tiny dog under one arm, a richly dressed girl, whose complexion was hidden beneath a coat of paint and powder, chanced to glance at an American officer whose face was frightfully pitted.

"Isn't it terrible that a man with a pock-marked face like that should be permitted to be an officer?" said she in an audible tone to another girl following her down the aisle.

Instantly a doughboy leaped to his feet, with: "Close your painted face, you half-baked little hussy! That captain led a charge through a barbed-wire entanglement to drag a wounded American—a real American—back out of No Man's Land while you were feeding sugar to your dog with a spoon. Every one of those wire marks on his face is a badge of honor."

The girl was able to blush even through her paint.—Toledo Blade.

HUNS FORM POLICE ARMY.

The Germans have a way all their own of getting around difficulties. They are now engaged in making a detour of the military provisions of the peace treaty. These provisions placed a limit on the military establishment much below that placed by Germany itself. But with its usual facility Germany has found a way out. The peace treaty while it limited the army made no limit on the police force of the various German states. Prussia is organizing a state police force or "schutsmannschaft." Its creation, as the minister of the interior states, is for the "repression of internal disorder." The first unit is at Cassel. Its members are housed in barracks and wear steel helmets, carry rifles and are equipped like the regular infantry. An American officer criticizes this new police force as trespassing on the provisions of the peace treaty. The Prussians say that it is not expected that the allies will be "unreasonable" which means that it is not expected that the German army will be limited to the very letter of the treaty.

WORLD'S DEEPEST WELLS.

Within the past two years a Pittsburgh natural gas company has drilled two wells, both deeper than any previously sunk into the earth. The first, nine miles from Clarksburg, W. Va., had to be abandoned when it had reached a depth of 7386 feet because the cable broke and the tools could not be "fished" out. The second well, also in West Virginia, was sunk to a depth of 7579 feet when the tools got stuck and the hole had to be abandoned. The deepest previous boring was to a depth of 7340 feet in Upper Silesia, Germany. The Pittsburgh company had hoped to penetrate to the rich gas and oil-bearing sand which underlies a large part of Ohio and is supposed to extend south into West Virginia. Valuable fossils and geological data were obtained. A temperature of 172 degrees F. was recorded at a depth of 7000 feet. The temperature rose one degree for each 51 feet below that depth and geologists estimate that at a depth of 10,000 feet the earth's crust is at the boiling-point.

An Agreeable Surprise.

"About three years ago when I was suffering from a severe cold on my lungs and coughed most of the time night and day, I tried a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and was surprised at the promptness with which it gave me relief," writes Mrs. James Brown, Clark Mills, N. Y. Many another has been surprised and pleased with the prompt relief afforded by this remedy.

"A burnt child dreads the fire," said the teacher, during a lesson on proverbs. "Now, can you give me another sentence which is different in wording but which means the same thing?"

A grimy hand went up and a voice responded: "Please teacher. 'A washed child dreads the water.'"

FARM DEPARTMENT.

Select Plenty Of Seed.

It is easy to forget, but the chances are ten to one that the farmers of Kentucky have not forgotten the shortage of seed corn two years ago. If they have not forgotten they should need no urging to begin the selection of seed corn the moment the crop has matured this fall. While selecting seed corn the farmer should see that he has more than enough. A two years' supply is not a bad plan by any means.

Of course, anyone knows a good ear of corn just as anyone knows a good horse when he sees one. But a good judge of corn or of horses may become a much better one by learning what experience has taught others. The Extension Division of the College of Agriculture has a six-page circular, "Selecting and Caring for Seed Corn," which is the very thing for the practical farmer to have at this time of the year. A letter or a post card to the Experiment Station asking for Extension Circular No. 63 will bring it at once.

Get Out of The Rut.

Practically every grown person in America supposed that he or she had finished going to school and learning lessons long ago. The war with its insistent demand for men, for supplies, for food and for money, forced upon every man and woman new lessons in economy and efficiency. Everybody went to school again during the war no matter how old he or she happened to be.

While the rude jolt and sudden awakening was a hard lesson to be learned, still it has had a fine effect in making everybody realize that things can be unlearned and other things learned no matter how old they happened to be. The war forced the man who has been in the rut all of his life to change his methods. The woman has been changed from doing things her own way because she felt it a patriotic duty. Now that the war has been over almost a year and the boys are practically all at home, it is time to take stock of oneself and decide definitely if it does not pay to keep out of the rut for all time to come. If efficiency and economy, co-operation and open-mindedness were worth while during the war, they certainly are worth while now that peace reigns in America.

Lime Is Needed.

The farmer in certain sections of Kentucky who is not convinced that ground limestone is necessary for his fields because his soil is underlaid with limitless quantity of limestone, is making a great mistake.

This same farmer realizes that the water in springs and wells is what is commonly called hard water because it contains lime. Every rain that goes down through the soil and off through the ground carries away a certain amount of limestone taken from the soil. Through the heavy average rainfall this amounts to an enormous amount of lime per year. The application of ground limestone merely makes up for this regular annual loss.

In Circular No. 59, "Liming the Soil," issued last year by the Extension Division of the College of Agriculture, of the University of Kentucky, it is estimated that 500 pounds is lost from every acre each year. In order that the thinking farmer may understand just exactly what this circular has to say on the subject the county agent is quoting the following from page 15:

"It is best to apply ground limestone in large amounts, considerably more than is needed to neutralize the immediate acidity. Two tons per acre is a good initial application in this State, although much benefit should come from the use of one ton, if finely ground and well spread and mixed through the soil. There is considerable loss of limestone from soils in the underground drainage waters; probably not less than 500 pounds per acre per year. This loss is unavoidable; in fact, it is a necessary result of the proper functioning of the material in the soil. To make good this loss, it is necessary to keep applying the material at the rate of not less than one ton every four years.

"For the growth of alfalfa, double the amounts recommended above should be used."

Buy With Care.

Every farmer who is in the market for fertilizers for autumn or spring use, should keep posted as to what he is buying. Complete fertilizers vary in their make up and the farmer ought to buy what his land needs and not have to pay for expensive ingredients which will do his land no good.

The farmer can keep posted as to what each fertilizer on the market contains by sending for Bulletin No. 219 "Commercial Fertilizers," which has been issued by the Kentucky Agriculture Experiment Station at Lexington.

The following extract from the bulletin will give the farmer an idea of how many brands of fertilizers are now on the market and what each contains:

"There were 724 different brands of commercial fertilizers registered during the year 1918. Of these 320 were complete fertilizers, or fertilizers containing all three of the essential ingredients namely: phosphoric acid, nitrogen and potash (non-acidulated bone and potash mixtures are not counted in this item.) 125 acid phosphates or superphosphates, 169 nitrogenous superphosphates, 45 acid phosphates and potash mixtures, and 65 bones, tankage and non-acidulated bone and potash mixtures. Samples sent by manufacturers of the various brands registered have been analyzed, as well as samples collected by our inspectors from fertilizers found on sale in the State and those sent in by farmers."

Must Be Up-To-Date.

Of course, the county agent has often written that farmers should read and read constantly to be up-to-date. It pleases the editor to be able to take his office shears and cut out the following editorial from the Progressive Farmer and put it in this column:

"No man can conduct a farm of any kind, as a farmer should conduct a farm, without reading. The lawyer who does not read the decisions of the various courts cannot succeed at his profession. The newspaper man will certainly fail if he does not read. The merchant, the banker, the doctor, the teacher, the mechanic must all keep abreast of the times or else they will soon find themselves without jobs or following others in their business who do read. The farmer must read the results of the experiment stations on the preparation of soil, the kind of seed to plant, the proper mode of cultivating the various crops, etc., if he expects to succeed. The man who does not read often pays $10 per bushel for second-rate seed, $1 apiece for ordinary fruit trees, and so on. The well posted farmer seldom gets caught."

Prevent or Fill Gullies And Avoid Soil Leaching.

Gullies are wasters of soil fertility. In many corn-producing sections the rows between the corn sometimes act as channels which soon wash deep and carry away much of the best soil of a field. Although it is not a simple matter to reduce these gullies, it is practical to attempt it, says the United States Department of Agriculture. A successful scheme practical throughout the corn belt by many farmers consists in thrashing settings of grain, where grain follows corn in the crop rotation, at intervals along the gully so that the by-product straw will be deposited in such a manner as to blockade and prevent further soil erosion. Even though wheat and rye straw are valuable for bedding purposes, it is advisable to sacrifice some of the latter as the farmer will eliminate a material source of loss and an eyesore from what probably is otherwise an attractive looking field.

Silo-Filling Time Is Near; Are You Prepared For It?

Corn-canning time—that period when a portion of the corn crop is prepared and sealed in the silo—will soon be here. Every silo owner should see that the structure is in best condition to receive the succulent corn crop.

As the farmer gives the silo the thorough "once over" he must look out, first of all, for proper protection for the interior, according to United States Department of Agriculture specialists. The annual application of a mixture of coal tar and creosote, both inside and outside, adds greatly to the life of a wood silo, as it protects the wood against decay. The coal-tar creosote solution is relatively inexpensive and the cost of treating the silo with this material is so slight that no silo owner should allow his silo to stand without this protection. It is also essential that he tighten loose hoops in order that no cracks or crevices allow air seepage. If the hoops have been kept tight, however, during the period that the silo is empty, they should be loosened just before filling to prevent buckling or breaking of hoops due to swelling when the dry staves absorb moisture from the green silage.

Look For Cracks In Old Silos

In the case of wooden silos it may be advisable to cement around the bottom of the silo where the foundation joins the superstructure. In the case of old silos it will be profitable for the farmer to go over them carefully to look for cracks and wherever he finds them to seal with tar and oakum, wood filler, or other effective material. If the bottom of the silo has decayed slightly, the owner may saw off whatever amount is necessary, and then, by the use of blockading, gradually lower the silo to the foundation again, cementing around the base as previously described.

When the silo is air-tight and able to stand the most rigid inspection, the owner may consider the actual work of filling. A wise precaution is to place several feet of straw in the bottom of the silo to act as a protective blanket between the bottom of the silo and the feed, as ordinarily silage juices collect there unless proper facilities for drainage are provided and the straw acts as a valuable absorbent for this excess of moisture which otherwise might damage the bottom silage.

Must Tramp It Down Well.

In the actual operation of filling the silo it is of paramount importance that no air pockets be left; this is prevented by sufficient tramping. It depends largely on the diameter of the silo how many men should be used to tramp the ensilage, but even in silos as small as 12 feet diameter, if sufficient help is available, at least three men should be used with an increase in the force as the size of the silo increases.

The proper sealing of the silo also is important, because where the silo is correctly topped off there usually is a minimum loss of the succulent feed. A good plan is to shap the ears from the last three or four loads of corn which are run into the silo.

Straw or coarse hay may also be used as a topping. Then oats should be sown over the top of the contents after it has been thoroughly moistened, if necessary, although as a rule the corn, if cut at the proper stage, is moist enough without extra watering. The oats sprout and form a dense blanket which prevents the ensilage from spoiling.

Full Seeded Lawns Best.

Throughout the South Atlantic States fall-sown lawns are always preferable, because as a rule, spring seeding merely prepares a fine seed-bed, which is dominated by crab grass, irrespective of what grass-seed mixture is planted. The fall-seeded lawn should be sown during the first two weeks in September, in order that the turf may attain adequate growth so as to weather the winter well. Old turfs which are beset with weeds may be renovated in the fall by raking out all the crab grass and forming a light mulch about one-half inch deep, so that more seed may be sown as desired. Although this practice is not recommended, it may be instituted where conditions operate against a new seeding. Thousands of dollars' worth of costly grass seed are wasted each year in the Middle and South Atlantic States in spring seeding. Specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture say that fall seeding saves unnecessary work in reseeding, as well as extra costs which usually attend the failures of spring seedings.

When interplanted in cherry orchards gooseberries and currants may be left for several years, according to the growth of the orchard and the size of the bushes; and in apple and pear orchards they may be left somewhat longer, though the ground occupied should be restricted to one or two rows of bushes through the center of the space between the tree rows. Otherwise, the bushes will be likely to interfere with the proper care of the trees. In vineyards the currants and gooseberries are often made a part of the permanent plantation, but while they are commonly productive when so grown, the grapes are likely to be rather unproductive.

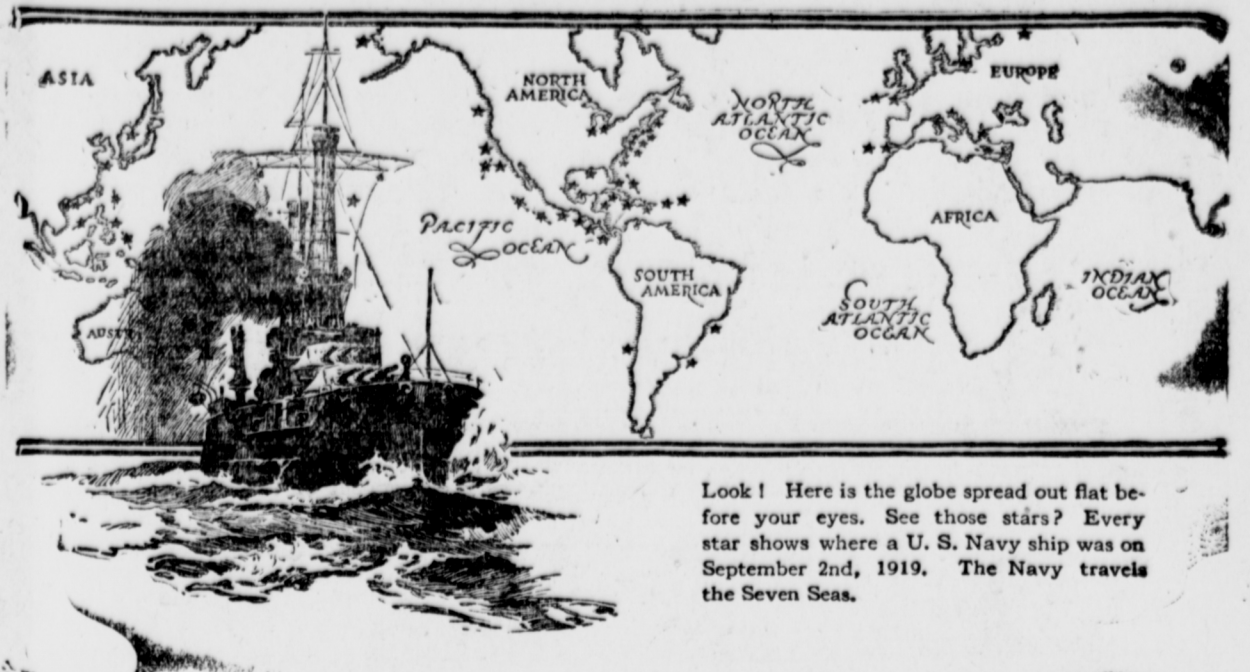

Malady Among Western Horses

An outbreak of what is commonly called the "Kansas Horse disease" has taken place in western Kansas and eastern Colorado within recent weeks, causing the loss of several hundred horses. With the reappearance of this malady, which veterinarians designate as forage poisoning, or cerebrospinal meningitis, representatives of the Bureau of Animal Industry and the Colorado Agricultural College began a vigorous campaign, which it is believed has effectively checked the epidemic. The fact that in the outbreak of 1912 Kansas lost some 20,000 horses indicates the serious possibilities of such an occurrence and the value of speedy protective measures such as the Federal and State experts have taken.

The cause of this disease is not definitely known, but it is believed to be due to eating some form of fungous growth. In response to questions in behalf of farmers and others whose animals have been stricken, the Bureau of Animal Industry has sent out a number of telegrams informing owners that work horses in the afflicted areas should not be permitted to graze and as far as possible they should receive only hay and grain rations from last year's crops. Horses in pastures should be removed to barns or dry-feed lots, and should like-wise be fed only hay and grain rations from last year's crop.

No Need For Farmer To Plant Poor Seed Corn.

This year's corn, over most of the United States, is good corn, the kind of corn that a man can plant with greatest assurance of getting a good crop. There is no knowing what next year's corn will be. It may be late, caught by early frosts, soft and unfit for seed. The farmer who looks ahead, say corn experts of the United States Department of Agriculture, will save enough seed corn out of this crop to meet his needs for two or, better still, for three years.

The old cry, of course, will be raised that there is not time at this busy season to select seed corn even for one year's planting, to say nothing of two or three. It does take time—but it takes less time to select the corn now than it will take spring after next to scour the country for a crib of old corn, or failing that, to find seed farther south. Fortunately, the right way is the least expensive and safest way. Also, it enables the farmer to go on growing the strain of corn that has "made good," instead of getting something haphazard that he knows nothing about.

If possible all small tools for the farm should be purchased on one order. This will save time and, usually, money. Also, it will entail a total expenditure sufficiently large to impress the farmer with the importance of giving systematic care to his small tools.

COSSACKS' INSULT TO U. S. SOLDIERS

Arrest Capt. Flogged Corporal—Japan May Be Involved.

Washington, Sept. 30.—The State and War Departments propose to ascertain the facts and demand an apology from the governments responsible for the arrests of Capt. L. P. Johns in Siberia by cossacks and the flogging of Corp Benjamin Spelling, of the 31st Regiment.

It is certain that the first government which the United States will press for satisfaction is that of Siberia, and if it be true that a Japanese major threatened to throw his forces on the side of the cossacks at Iman, where the incident occurred, Japan also will be called upon for explanations and apologies.

Secretary of War Baker said today he had a message from Maj. Gen. W. S. Graves, commanding, stating the case briefly although without mentioning the names of the officer and corporal. Parts of the message were turned over to the State Department.

Japanese There in Force.
It is figured here that as the incident took place only a few miles north of Vladivostok the Japanese were there in force as that part of the railroad is controlled by the Japanese although the actual work of running the road is in the hands of the Chinese.

Officers here who are out and out in favor of the withdrawal of all American troops from Siberia say there has been bad blood between the Japanese and the Americans ever since the Americans appeared on the ground. This unconcealed feeling became manifest when the Japanese derided the Americans because they did not come to the rescue of the Japanese force which was cut up by Bolsheviks in the early part of the international occupation.

The ill-feeling reached the boiling point when Japanese attacked American soldiers at Tien Tsen. The army has been expecting for months that the State Department would secure an ample apology from Japan for that affair, but the State Department has never been willing to make a statement in the matter, not even today.

Withdrawal only Solution.
It was announced at one time that Japan had decided to make amends to the United States, but as soon as the news reached Tokio, the Japanese government issued an official denial. It was emphasized today that the situation in Siberia is such that as the troops remain there every incident, such as this latest one, makes it certain that others will follow and that the only escape from the situation is the withdrawal of the United States troops out of the region.

Lalley Electric Light is actually a farm economy.

It is an economy because it saves both labor and time.

It is an economy because, on the other hand, it gives better light for work which must be done before daylight or after dark.

Light and power are always ready, at the lowest possible operating cost. It is a fact that Lalley savings do pay its way.

Lalley Light is a complete unit—engine and generator—with 16-cell storage battery. It supplies ample electricity for lights, water pump, washing machines, sweepers, cream separator, lanning mill, iron, etc.
